

Disclaimer:

Weights, Dimensions, Coloration, Tolerances

The tolerances in size (plus or minus dimension) of floor matting products made with rubber or vinyl compounds can vary by 5-8%. Compounds stay active during the curing process. This is a normal chemical process that continues even once the finished products are packaged and stored.

Sizes referenced for sale are approximations only and are known as 'standard industry sizes' (for example, 4'x8'), but the actual dimensions may differ from those listed.

If exact dimensions are required, please contact customer support to have your request accommodated.

Weights are approximations as well and do vary between product lines and throughout production runs. Both online and printed color representations may not provide a true color match. These mediums are for general selection only and are not intended to represent the exact color of the product.

If color selection is imperative or your establishment requires the same dye lot material, please request a sample or reach out to customer support for additional guidance.